

Racial Disparities in Maternal Health Briefing
Briefing Postponed: Date to be Determined

As the COVID-19 situation continues to evolve and reported cases climb, the Commission has made the difficult decision to postpone the briefing on Racial Disparities in Maternal Health that was to be held next Friday, March 20th, 2020 in DC. The decision was not made lightly and was done out of caution to ensure the safety and health of participants and Commission staff. The Commission is looking to reschedule the briefing at a future date and will be updating the public once we have more information.
